MINISTERS EXPRESS SORROW.

Evangelical Alliance Adopts Resolution on President's Misfortune.

The St. Louis Evangelical Alliance convened in special session at Odd Fellows' Hall yesterday. The Reverend R. D. Smart of the alliance, and pastor of Cook Avenue M. E. Church, South, presided. The following resolution was adopted:

"That we have heard with deep sorrow, of the attempt upon the life of our beloved President; that we tender to him and his family our prayers and sympathy; and we hope that the issue of this sad event may be a safe one; and that the country may be saved from the hands of an assassin; and that every loyal heart, not more by administration of public affairs than by the exalted worth of his character, will be moved to the aid of his country."

This resolution was introduced by the Reverend Doctor L. S. Hopkins, pastor of St. John's M. E. Church, South. He said:

"We stand under the shadow of a national and international calamity. Such an act as that which has stricken down our chief executive would be a shock even in a monarchy."

"But there is light even in the midst of gloom. No more shining mark could have been chosen. President McKinley's private life is spotless, and the true greatness of his character is seen in his ceaseless devotion to his people. His death is a blow to every loyal heart, not more by administration of public affairs than by the exalted worth of his character. The lines of religious difference are also obliterated. In this there is cause for gratitude and consolation."

The resolution was seconded by the Reverend T. H. Hager, and brief addresses were made by W. D. Pittman, C. C. Nichols, Wells H. Hurlbutt, Jr., and others. The closing prayer was by the Reverend Taylor Bernard, pastor of Raymond Place Cumberland Presbyterian Church.

TEXAS OFFERS SYMPATHY.

Fitting Resolutions Adopted by Council at Fort Worth.

REPUBLIC SPECIAL.
Fort Worth, Tex., Sept. 7.—The City Council adopted the following resolution:

"Resolved, That the City Council of the city of Fort Worth deploras the misfortune that has befallen the President of the United States and the calamity that will befall the nation should the cruel stroke end his life."

"Resolved, That we sympathize with him in his private affliction, and devoutly pray that he may be spared to the people, whom he has served so faithfully and with so great moderation."

The body also authorized the Mayor to send the following telegram:

"Fort Worth, Tex., Sept. 7, 1901.—Mrs. William McKinley, Buffalo, N. Y.: Our people greatly sympathize with you in your great affliction and pray that the President's life may be spared to a people who owe him so much for his patriotic devotion to his country, the South as well as the North. (Signed) T. J. POWELL, Mayor."

AN ANARCHIST PLOT.

Opinion of Buffalo's Police Chief on Czolgosz.

Washington, Sept. 7.—Major Sylvester, Superintendent of Buffalo, has received the following telegram from Chief of Police William S. Bull of Buffalo:

"Czolgosz is an Anarchist; says it was his duty, but is now glad he did not kill the President; plot was made in the West. Think the prisoner lying and stubborn."

KNOWLEDGE OF FOOD.

Proper Selection of Great Importance in Summer.

The feeding of infants is a very serious proposition, as all mothers know. Food must be used that will easily digest, and the undigested parts will be thrown into the intestines and cause sickness.

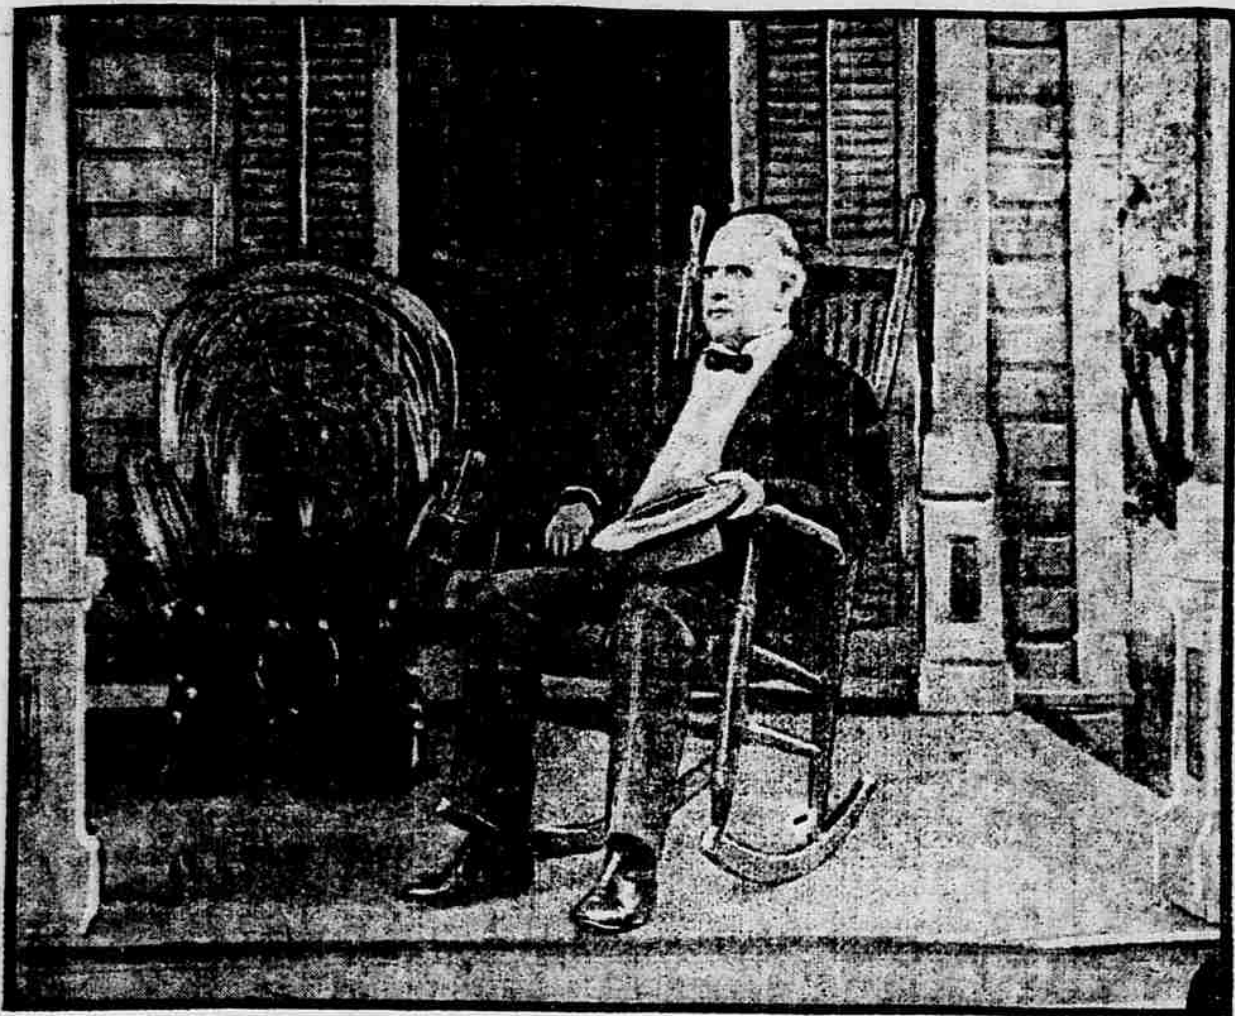

It is important to know that a food can be obtained that is always safe; that is Grape-Nuts.

A mother writes: "My baby took the first premium at the baby show on the 5th Inst., and in every way a prize baby. I have fed him on Grape-Nuts since he was five months old. I also use your Postum Food Coffee for myself." Mrs. L. M. Fishback, Alvin, Tex.

Grape-Nuts Food is not made solely for a baby food, by any means, but is manufactured for all human beings who have irritable, or serious, difficulties in the stomach and bowels.

One special point of value is that the food is predigested in the process of manufacture, not by any drugs or chemicals, whatsoever, but simply by the action of heat, moisture and time, which permits the diastase to grow, and change the starch into grape-sugar. This prevents food to the system ready for immediate assimilation.

Its special value as a food, beyond the fact that it is easily digested, is that it supplies the needed elements to quickly rebuild the cells in the brain and nerve centers throughout the body.

CZOLGOSZ THINKS HE IS A HERO

Speaks Exultantly of His Crime and Wishes to Share the "Glory" of It With No One—Is a Study of Sullen Defiance and Morbid Fear.

REPUBLIC SPECIAL.
Buffalo, N. Y., Sept. 7.—Sullen, defiant and yet filled with a morbid fear, Leon Czolgosz cowers in his cell at police headquarters. At times he is in a frenzy of self-glorification, and again in an agony of fear when he realizes what the future may have in store for him.

This would-be assassin of President McKinley presents a character that would make an interesting study to an alienist. That he is sane there can be no doubt. He realizes the enormity of his crime, and while his soul is not agitated by fear he looks upon himself as a hero.

Even when thoughts of the punishment that is inevitable come to him he refuses to admit regret. Time and again he has inquired of his guard whether his victim still lives. Each time an affirmative answer has been given to him, he has shaken his head and expressed regret.

Once he was deceived; the guard told him that the President had just died. The face of this monstrous man lighted up, a smile of pleasure flitted across his features and in a tone that betokened candor he said:

"I am glad; I am glad that he is dead. I had a duty, and I did it well. Now, do with me as you will."

With this declaration of bravado Czolgosz paced restlessly up and down his cell, mumbling to himself: "They said that I was afraid. I am the only man who had the courage."

Czolgosz fears summary execution. Three minutes later Czolgosz was lying on his cot all a-tremble. His lips twitched and tears were pouring down his cheeks. When his guard attempted to again engage him in conversation either he could not or he would not speak, and he did not talk until he had been assured that his victim had been made and that the President lived.

"At this Czolgosz scowled and hurled a string of oaths at his deceiver. "You told me he was dead," he said, "and I'm sorry that it is not so. I am not to be frightened; I am not the result for myself. I came to Buffalo to perform a certain deed, and unless I have accomplished it my work has not been well done."

In this manner the day was passed. The greatest fear of Czolgosz is that he will meet with summary punishment at the hands of a mob. The least emotion in the hands of a mob would cause him to tremble. More than once he has demanded assurances that his life will be protected.

He is an anarchist pure and simple, opposed to all forms of government and desirous of the death of those who represent law and order. He knows that among his kind he will be looked upon as a daring hero, and it is quite probable that he will face the ordeal of legal punishment with fortitude.

Czolgosz was seen to-day by a representative of The Republic, and he appeared to be extremely anxious to submit to an interview. When the reporter passed in front of his cell and was introduced to Czolgosz, the prisoner came forward with a smile on his face, reached out his hand and attempted to give a formal salutation.

POWELL REGARD HIM AS A MORAL AND PHYSICAL COWARD.
"I shot the President of the United States," said Czolgosz, "and in so doing I was upholding the principles that I had been taught. I am sorry."

At this point the prisoner was interrupted by a policeman, who had accompanied the reporter, and who said that his instructions had been not to permit Czolgosz to talk to any one. The interruption threw Czolgosz into a fit of sullenness, from which he did not recover for several hours.

The police look upon this man who attempted to assassinate the nation's President as a moral and physical coward. They say that he was in a paroxysm of fear so long as the mob remained outside the jail last night and he could hear their demands for his life, yet he has given no demonstration of sorrow.

When asked if he had thought about the President's wife while planning his crime, Czolgosz said:

"It was not the husband that I intended to kill; it was the President of the United States. The bullet that I fired was at the representative of the present condition of law, which are all mistakes."

Several times during the last twenty-four hours Czolgosz has been put through a series of interrogations by the police at one of which Secretary of War Root was present. The prisoner's answers were taken in shorthand, he being given fair warning that they might be used against him when he is brought to trial.

He made the confession with extreme willingness, and when he had finished and appended his signature he was asked whether he had planned to escape after shooting President McKinley.

He said he had made no careful plans, but, of course, had intended to take advantage of any opportunity that might offer itself. He expected to be arrested, but at the same time thought that his act would throw the crowd into such confusion that he could get away.

He also said that he never contemplated committing suicide, adding that the authorities need have no fear on that score, as no again freely discussed his crime. It is hoped to gain from him information which will lead to the arrest of his accomplices, if there were any.

The prisoner was confronted with several witnesses, but only one of them knew him. This exception was Walter Nowak, who said that he had met Czolgosz in Cleveland and that he had a reputation in that city for being an anarchist and a member of a band of "reds," all of whom were capable of desperate deeds. District Attorney Penny said this evening that he had not yet determined what course to pursue in regard to Czolgosz.

"Thus far," said the District Attorney, "I have busied myself gathering together such evidence as is at hand, and as may be of future use. Of course, it is impossible for me to say what action will be taken for guarding Czolgosz."

"That will depend entirely upon the result of the President's injuries. You may say one thing, however, to the American people, Czolgosz cannot escape the penalty of his crime on the plea of insanity. He is as sane a man as any other criminal. I confess that I do not understand such creatures, but there seems to be no doubt that he believes in the theory of anarchism."

"It is a pity that the full measure of punishment that is his due cannot be meted out unless the President of the United States dies."

"Special laws should be made governing such cases. The man who attacks the President of the United States attacks every citizen of the United States. I only hope that sensationalism will be minimized, for the reason that if it is not there will be some who will look upon this murderer as a hero."

"MIGHT HAVE BEEN AVERTED."
Chief Sylvester Tells How He Would Have Protected President.

REPUBLIC SPECIAL.
Washington, Sept. 7.—To no official of the District government was the news of the attempted assassination of the President, a greater shock than to Major Richard Sylvester, the Superintendent of Police. It has been Major Sylvester's privilege to provide for the proper protection of the Chief Executive during his residence in Washington and upon the occasions of his public appearances here.

Speaking of the precautions usually taken by the authorities here, the Major said: "Our duty is to be always apprehensive of the President's welfare while he is at home, to watch his movements as carefully as possible and to advise authorities elsewhere as to what steps should be taken when the President intends to visit their city."

"What I think is most essential to the protection of the President on the occasion of public receptions like that in Buffalo yesterday is to have a sufficient number of detectives and Secret-Service men on hand to form a long line, through which people wishing to greet the President should pass. If such a course were followed, it is more than probable that a man with his hand covered by a handkerchief or who resorts to any other device to hide a weapon would attract the attention of some skilled officer and be dealt with accordingly.

"In matters of this kind the highest degree of skill and intelligence should be employed. But men and officials are only human and things like this seem bound to happen some times."

"The time must soon come now when the indulgence of these so-called anarchists shall be stopped. Their exultant meetings and excesses and the expressions of sympathy for the assassin in cases of this kind should be interrupted firmly and finally. Avowed anarchists should not be countenanced for a moment. Their actions partake of high treason."

"It is easy to talk about such matters and their remedies after a thing has happened. What should be done is to take the precautions beforehand. Prevention is what is expected of the laws and the police, and the latter should be given the necessary authority."

MAYOR VAN WYCK

ISSUES A PROCLAMATION.

REPUBLIC SPECIAL.
New York, Sept. 7.—To the People of the City of New York: A most cowardly attempt has been made upon the life of the President of the United States, who lies critically ill in the city of Buffalo.

In view of this sudden and appalling calamity, which fills the hearts of all with sorrow and anxiety, I call upon the people of the city of New York to meet in their accustomed places of worship to-morrow, September 8, to join in earnest prayer to him who is the giver of all life, to grant to our suffering President a safe deliverance from his peril and a speedy return to health and to the discharge of the duties of his great office.

Witness my hand and seal of office at the City Hall, in the City of New York, this seventh day of September, A. D. one thousand nine hundred and one.

FOREIGN RULERS HORRIFIED BY THE NEWS.

SPECIAL BY CABLE.

London, Sept. 7.—The attempt upon the life of President McKinley is the sole topic of conversation in London this morning. The street the people are saying, "Isn't it awful!" which reference is quite sufficient to identify the subject that is uppermost in the minds of all.

The United States Embassy has received many telegrams and telephone messages from distinguished persons inquiring for the attempt of the would-be assassin.

Lord Pauncefote, the British Ambassador to the United States, accompanied by his daughter, was one of the earliest callers at the United States Embassy this morning. He expressed the greatest sympathy and anxiety regarding President McKinley's condition. The other callers at the embassy included Judge Gray of Delaware, Professor Saunders of Harvard and practically all the leading Americans in London.

HOPE FOR UNIVERSAL PEACE TO DEAL WITH ANARCHISTS.

In the absence of Lord Salisbury and the Marquis of Lansdowne from London, Schomberg McDonnell, principal private secretary to the Prime Minister, said: "You cannot use terms too strong in expressing our indignation at the outrage and sympathy with the President. It is terrible. If Mr. McKinley dies, which we sincerely hope he will not, the whole world will lose a man of greater integrity and statesmanship than it even at present realizes."

"This latest attempt may produce an international arrangement by which anarchists will be dealt with according to the desert, and this cancer of civilization be suppressed. Certainly England would favor such a plan. We and Ameri-

"We are all deeply relieved to hear the encouraging reports about the President's condition, but remembering keenly how President Garfield lingered, we dread the possibility of complications until the other bullet is found."

Passengers booked to sail for New York on the steamship St. Paul to-day, gathered at Waterloo Station this morning en route for further news of the President's condition, many dreading the week of suspense with which their passage will be marked.

At Euston Station, when the Lucania's train left, there was a scene similar to the one witnessed at Waterloo Station. The passengers hung about the platform inquiring for the latest information, and apparently reluctant to put themselves out of communication with the news about the President's condition even for a few hours.
